

CLAIM

What I claim as my invention is the way of securing a bobber to your fishing line by clamping it on your line in between two half spheres held together under pressure using either elastic cord, a spring or very light spring-steel then using some type of lever system to open and close the half spheres apart.